

Ojai's first new residential development in 10 years leads the way with innovative work-live housing

California Commercial Investment Group, Inc. (CCI), a California-based national housing management and development firm and Raven Ridge Development (Raven Ridge), a Los Angeles based development firm, are proud to announce the grand opening of Craftsman Village in Ojai, CA. Local stakeholders and business leaders will join developers on Friday, November 15th at 12:30 PM in a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the new luxury, mixed-use development in Ojai.

Located at 611 Pearl Street, Ojai, CA, in the heart of downtown Ojai, Craftsman Village represents an advanced luxury housing opportunity in an area with extremely limited rental options. Live work space is an up-and-coming trend designed to improve work/life balance, increase productivity by decreasing distractions, recapture time spent commuting and eliminating the stress of freeway traffic. This unique design incorporates living spaces on the upper level and work spaces at the lower level such that there is a defined home and work space giving the term home office a new meaning. Furthermore, its proximity to the many shops, restaurants and public spaces available to Ojai residents makes it an ideal place for the unique live-work concept that includes infill development and community-based living.

“It was important to us to retain the small-town personality that Ojai embodies while offering its residents the ability to work in the place they live,” said Garry Collett, principal of CCI.

Craftsman Village is an 8-unit mixed-use development consisting of 5 large live-work apartment units, two commercial/retail units and one residential unit. Units include great rooms, high grade kitchen appliances, two car enclosed garages, and a community barbeque area for gatherings. It is the only residential new construction project built in Ojai over the last decade.

The ribbon cutting will occur at 12:30 pm on November 15, 2019 at 611 Pearl Street, Ojai, CA 93023.
